The National Council on Skin Cancer Prevention

The respected voice and trusted source for the nation's skin cancer prevention community since 1998.

The National Council is an organization with the vision of "a united voice to create a world without skin cancer" and a mission "to prevent skin cancer through education, advocacy, and raising awareness."

National Council members represent the nation's premier researchers, clinicians and advocates for melanoma and skin cancer prevention and plays a unique role in connecting more than 40 organizations, agencies, and associations that are making a real difference in the lives of millions of adults, children, and families throughout the country.

Together, the National Council has the connections and the national voice to advocate, to influence, and to increase skin cancer prevention.

Key activities for the National Council include the award winning Don't Fry Day Campaign, the Indoor Tan-free "Skin Smart Campus" Initiative, advocating for melanoma research and skin cancer prevention funding, extensive anti-tanning bed efforts, and developing unified messages and guidelines.

The National Council also centers on uniting members by conducting quarterly membership meetings held virtually and in person in Washington, DC. These dynamic meetings are where members come together to share information, exchange ideas, stay current on skin cancer information and trends, develop partnerships, and help guide national policies.

Our Goals:

Educate and Engage Our Members

Inform and involve members with skin cancer prevention information, best practices, resources, and research finding.

Advocate

Advocate for the importance of skin cancer prevention and support prevention initiatives on the local, state, and national levels.

Raise Public Awareness of Council

Expand Capacity

Increase membership and strengthen organizational structure to sustain and expand the NCSCP's ability to improve effectiveness and services.
